The nominator must ensure that the person being nominated is indeed worthy of consideration and that all of his/her accomplishments, including dates, are included. The citation must be based on the accomplishments of the individual and these activities must exceed the standard that is expected of a member.

(Regardless of the offices held, describe what the outstanding services are that set the member apart from all of the others. It must be remembered that the members of the Provincial and Dominion Command Ritual, Awards and Protocol Committees have only the citation on which to base decisions. Therefore, complete details, including dates, must be provided of the outstanding services rendered in the Legion and any community service by the member being recommended, since the last award.)
